

The journal of a plant

Day 0 (2000 January 1)

There lived a stupid person called “Hoomandier”, and one day he went to the local plant shop, and he brought a nut seed. He went home, went to a local plains biome, and planted the seed. He went home after that.

Day 1

I woke up, and felt soil all around me. It was wet and nutrient dense. It had water that I could use to grow myself. Weeks pass and I am slowly growing.

Week 3

I finally got myself out of the soil; I saw sunlight for the first time, and the feeling of wind, rushing through my stem. It was a great feeling. I was glad I was not dead already, since my life is just beginning.

Week 6

I am now a small plant with a few leaves. I am still very small, so any human can step on me. I can see humans starting to come and plant seeds. It felt nice to see that. It turns out that this is part of a project to plant 100k trees to help stop climate change. Therefore, I made many friends. However, many stupid humans also come and step on the tiny plants. Therefore, I also had to see countless tiny plants being killed before their life really began.

Week 11

It has now been 2 months and a week and I am now big enough to be a small sized tree. I produce nuts at random times. According to my friends, a nut plant that is 11 weeks old should produce one nut per week or more.

I am happy at this time. Now this area has a minimum age to enter, so no little kids can come and destroy tiny plants. I have around 70 friends now, so as I said I made many, many friends.

Unlike humans plants do not need to study, the plant brain comes with all of the required knowledge needed to live, such as how to turn sunlight into sugar (photosynthesis) and my roots take nutrients from the soil. There is less nutrients in the soil now as more plants are in the area, but overall things are going good. And climate change hasn't destroyed earth yet (keyword yet)

Week 15

This week I was excited, I was going to get my first phone! I could use it to use Facebook, twitter, YouTube, dontDestroyEarth and many more apps.

I got the phone and looked at it, it was square shaped, I clicked the right side button and a ray of light shined into my eyes. The phone had opened. "Whoa! This is cool" I said to myself. I saw the time, and many tiny little icons. I recognized some of them. It had Facebook, twitter and Instagram pre-installed! I clicked Facebook and created an Facebook account called "IndiaPlantAE1_Facebook" and used a password that no one could guess (I am not writing my password incase this book gets stolen). I also made twitter and Instagram accounts. I also installed some games like PlantSimulator, ImposterSUS and MCPE

Week 16

I have now been using the phone for over a week and its awesome; I only have a few complaints with this nokei nokiya Nokia device. It is kinda laggy, as I usually get 30-40 FPS when playing MCPE. In addition, that the device takes a while to charge, about 2 hours for 100% charge, which can last for 8 hours, decent. But could be better Speaking of games, I have been playing these games with a lot of my new friends, me and my friends have an tiny little MCPE SMP called “Indian Plants SMP”. We have built a decently sized city in there.

Week 30

A new kid has arrived, he has now came out of the soil and looked at his surrounding and saw me, and said “Hello, what’s your name? I’m EtaGas”. The realization struck me; I never had an official NAME, my friends call me IP or IP300. I responded saying “N—Nice to meet you EtaGas, I am IP, you can call me IP300 if you want to”. He said “Ahh. Ok, so how old are you?” I replied, “I am 30 Weeks old, or 6 months, you are 4 weeks old?” Moreover, he replied saying “ya”.

Week 41

My friends and I again met up to play MCPE, and when we tried to join the SMP, we got an error... I tried again but I still got an error. All my friends also got the error. Turns out the SMP got hacked! This was confusing since this was a private SMP and we did not leak it to anyone. Behind me, EtaGas was giggling and talking to some of his new friends. I turned around and asked EtaGas “Eyy EtaGas, do you know who hacked our SMP?” and EtaGas responded saying, “ARHARHAR yee I know who hacked it, it was MEEE waAhaha”, I was really annoyed and took out a fallen stick “Give our SMP back!” I said to him in an annoyed mad tone. He responded saying, “I’ll give it back, but first you need to play a game I made using HTML, go to <https://sw.gaymes.com> and play it... If you can get a score of 550 I will give the SMP back”.

So when we were supposed to be playing on the SMP, we were playing this idiots game called “plant escape human” which is a rip off of subway surfers. Nevertheless, to be fair he did a good job, we had fun playing his game.

“Wow the game is actually cool, we might play it sometimes, can you add multiplayer to it?” I said. EtaGas responded saying “yee sure” and helped them log back into their SMP. However, it was almost night so we played on the SMP the next day.

Year 1

I am officially 1 year old, my friends made a surprise party for me, EtaGas was also a good friend, he was an expert at programming websites, I had asked him to teach me some HTML and he said he will think about it.

The party was fun, we had music, cake and most importantly my favorite foods, Eetus (a friend of mine) was really good at cooking, he cooked the cake and other foods (along with help from others)

For the next 6 months it was the same. Wake Up, MCPE SMP, Learn HTML with EtaGas, eat and sleep. We were a bit bored so for the next 6 Months we played a variety of games.

Year 2

Our friend, M.I came to us and said “hey, you know I produce phones here, my current team and me are thinking let’s all create a technical masterpiece, you all can help in making it”

I responded saying, “Interesting, but what are we going to make, and how long will it take?”

“Maybe 3 year’s idk really... It is to create a Virtual Simulator, the idea is simple: Plants can’t move (without genetic engineering) so we create a simulator that can simulate reality, it can be worn on your head like a human made VR” responded M.I. Therefore, we all worked on this Virtual Simulator for the next 6 years.

Year 8

So we are finally done creating the virtual simulator, we have made about 2000 models of this device and software. So all of us can go virtual CAMPING! It uses tree models with human like capabilities.

So we opened the virtual simulator, selected camping, we decided to go camping in a local forest.

We started and we first went to get some wood, we had some axes, pickaxes, and some camping setup.

Therefore, we made a little camp, set it up, and made a little wooden shack and also got some stone. We made a fireplace and camped around it. The virtual simulator also has good force feedback, and good graphics.

We continued the play and we made a bunch of little shacks. We continued playing on the virtual simulator for the next few years. It is fun and props to M.I for the making it.

Year 10

2 years have passed and nothing really has changed, even though EtaGas has made some cool games.

However, 25% of the amazon rainforest has been destroyed, and the ice is melting. The North Pole is destroyed, and the ozone layer is being broken even more. The earth is slowly dying. It's... still logically possible to save the earth, but no human effort is done to saving the earth, and in a nearby country called “Maldives” they have killed a few hundred thousand corals to make an manmade island called “Hulu Male” which is sad to hear.

Year 13

3 years have passed and around 27% of the amazon forest is dead, and a lot and I mean many corals have died in this short span. In addition, the ozone layer is more damaged than ever, things are looking south. In addition, there are rumors that “humans looking to deforest the Indian forest of forests” (which is the forest we currently live in).

On the bright or rather not bad side, we know made a collaborative effort to create a YouTube channel. It’s called “Indian Tree Gamers” and we upload virtual simulator, Minecraft, Pokemon, and SWGame content. The channel is doing good, in an year we got a total of 1.5k subs, not a bad start after all.

Year 15

2 years have passed and I think you are tired of hearing that more of the amazon forest is destroyed (yup now 30%) and that the ozone layer is like 29.99% destroyed at this point. A great achievement by humanity.

And regarding the rumors of humans killing us, it was delayed thanks to coronavirus, which caused them to stay at home, and simulate destroying cutting trees down.

Year 16 Month 6 Day 16

It's finally happening, on Facebook the "DestroyForestCO" have publically announced that on October 1st 2016, they will start their newest project, to destroy the Indian forest of forest.

Also, if you were wondering, our YouTube channel has been doing really, really well, with now 10k subscribers. We are all happy with it and we have a solid decent YouTube fan base.

But anyway back to topic, humans are going to start destroying us, so we decided that we only have one option... go WAR!

WAR FOR LIFE (BEGINS)

October 1st 2016

We have been training for this since the warning they gave us. We have been training to make our branches stronger so we could kill em if we have to. This is not only for our life. This effort is for the LIFE OF THE PLANET. Every tree destroyed has a tiny impact on the planet, and if you destroy so many trees at once, that tiny impact becomes huge impact.

We wait for them to come, eyes open, looking hard to spot any lurking humans. Some of us were able to purchase some guns, and tanks. Therefore, we had those ready to operate.

3:00 AM

Everyone was looking, and we saw and heard some humans. It looks like they were not expecting for us trees to go to war, so they were surprised that we had tanks.

And guns ready to use. We launched the gun at a human and he died. The remaining people dropped their axes, and went home screaming for help!

October 19th 2016

We opened Facebook and we saw a post from DestroyForestCO saying “If this is how you @IndianTreeGamers respond, we will accept the war offer, and we will go WAR against you @ IndianTreeGamers.

This was bad news... Shoot. Well this was not how we planned it, wave 2 will be much stronger

November 1 2016

Stone on top of the plant seeds protected them, but the rest of the plants cannot hide, we need sunlight for photosynthesis.

50% of the plants that make the population decided they will go back to their normal routines, the other 50% still keeping and look out for the rascallions that are the DestroyForestCO group people... That have decided to go WAR.

November 22 2016 3:00 AM

So they came again with matches, but no guns, they had axes. Turns out guns cannot hurt trees so they decided they would have humans cut down the trees, and the match to burn down the tree if they have to. They also brought a grenade, to explode the place if they have to.

The people came and started cutting down the tree, the tree started to scream in pain and recklessly used his branches to squeeze the humans throat so he can't breathe, he quickly suffocated even though there was a cut on the tree.

Then the humans took out the match, I was praying that it was going to rain, because that is the only thing, we could hope for, there was no puddles nearby to take water from.

And lucky we were, it started to rain, making the match useless, but that left the grenade. While the humans were annoyed by the match and were discussing whether to throw the grenade or not, I took the grenade using my branches and gave it to the tree behind me, like that soon the grenade was far away, the last tree gave it to a wandering trader to get some milk.

Then the humans realized that their match was useless, and they lost the grenade, they decided to not surrender but to run to the trees and cut their branches off. Some of the weaker plants branches were cut before the plants could do any real damage, but the stronger plants had thick and strong branches meaning they could suffocate the human before he could cut all the branches, and plants have more than two branches anyway.

So we were winning the battle, and as the last few humans came to try to kill us, we killed them and won the battle.

Even though we had won the battle, we had lost around 2000 plants lives, because they were destroyed before their branches could kill the human. Moreover, that kids is why you need to be FIT.

So then, we cleaned up the area and took the tanks back home. We had borrowed them from DontDestroyEarthInc and those tanks were weak, the guns was also rented from DontDestroyEarthInc. We all were happy we won the war. However, winning this war is also bad, MrBeast decided to give 1Mil dollars to whoever can cut down 10,000 trees from the IndianForestOfForests.

Nevertheless, since our branches we so OP, we could use them to kill any real humans. However, instead of working on creating a military service, we decided we would help all plants have thicc branches. Therefore, UrMama decided to start a gym called “ThiccBranchiers” which helps in developing strong and thicc branches.

WAR FOR LIFE (ENDS)

Year 20

The year is 2020. I am now 20 years old. Life has been going pretty well in the IndianForestOfForests, our branches are so OP that we killed anyone who attempted to cut down our tree. Overall we have killed about 1500 humans in total, so humans decided to rename it from “IndianForestOfForests” to “IndianForestOfDeaths”

While we are doing all right, there more concerning issues on this planet. 50% of the Amazon Rainforest is destroyed and the ozone layer is.... Uhh, let's say 60% destroyed. This is.... AAAAAAARRRRGGGHHH!

humans HAVE DESTROYED SO MUCH THAT THE AVERAGE TEMPERATURE HAS INCREASED BY 5°C! HELL, IT IS HOT AS... A FRIED CHICKEN!

Seriously, doomsday is coming soon; humans have made the achievement "Destroy earth beyond repair"

Year 21

Ooh yeah! And even better news; doomsday is coming very, very soon. Human scientists have found out that a SOLAR FLARE will hit earth in less than a day. This is bad news, since the solar flare will damage the remaining percentage of the atmosphere.

This is where I am now. I will probably die along with everything else tomorrow when the solar flare hits us. So all I am going to say is....

CURSE YOU STUPID IDIOTIC
HUMANS, THIS IS WHAT YOU GET, AND WE ALL HAVE TO SUFFER FOR

YOUR IDIOTIC DECISIONS,
YOU SERIOUSLY THOUGHT
IT WAS NOTHING DID YOU!
YOU ALL THOUGHT YOU WERE SO GENIUS YEAH
DID NOT YOU!